Karlan Grant: Deep-Lying Forward

As the graph highlights, Karlan Grant ranks 6th overall among Championship-level peers when profiled specifically as a Deep-Lying Forward — placing him firmly in elite company. This ranking reflects his effectiveness in combining creative link-up play, intelligent movement, and goal threat from deeper attacking positions. His ability to contribute both in chance creation and finishing makes him one of the most impactful forwards in this role, particularly for teams seeking a mobile, tactically astute forward who can connect phases of play and exploit transitional moments.

Karlan Grant's 2024/25 season with West Bromwich Albion has highlighted his versatility and consistent impact across multiple attacking roles, having played under four different managers. He's been deployed as a left winger, deeper left midfielder, centre forward, and attacking midfielder, showcasing his adaptability and tactical awareness.

While used across the frontline, touch and heat maps confirm his strongest influence comes from the left flank, particularly in the half-space and near the touchline. Here, he stretches defences, links with overlapping fullbacks, and cuts inside to shoot or combine.

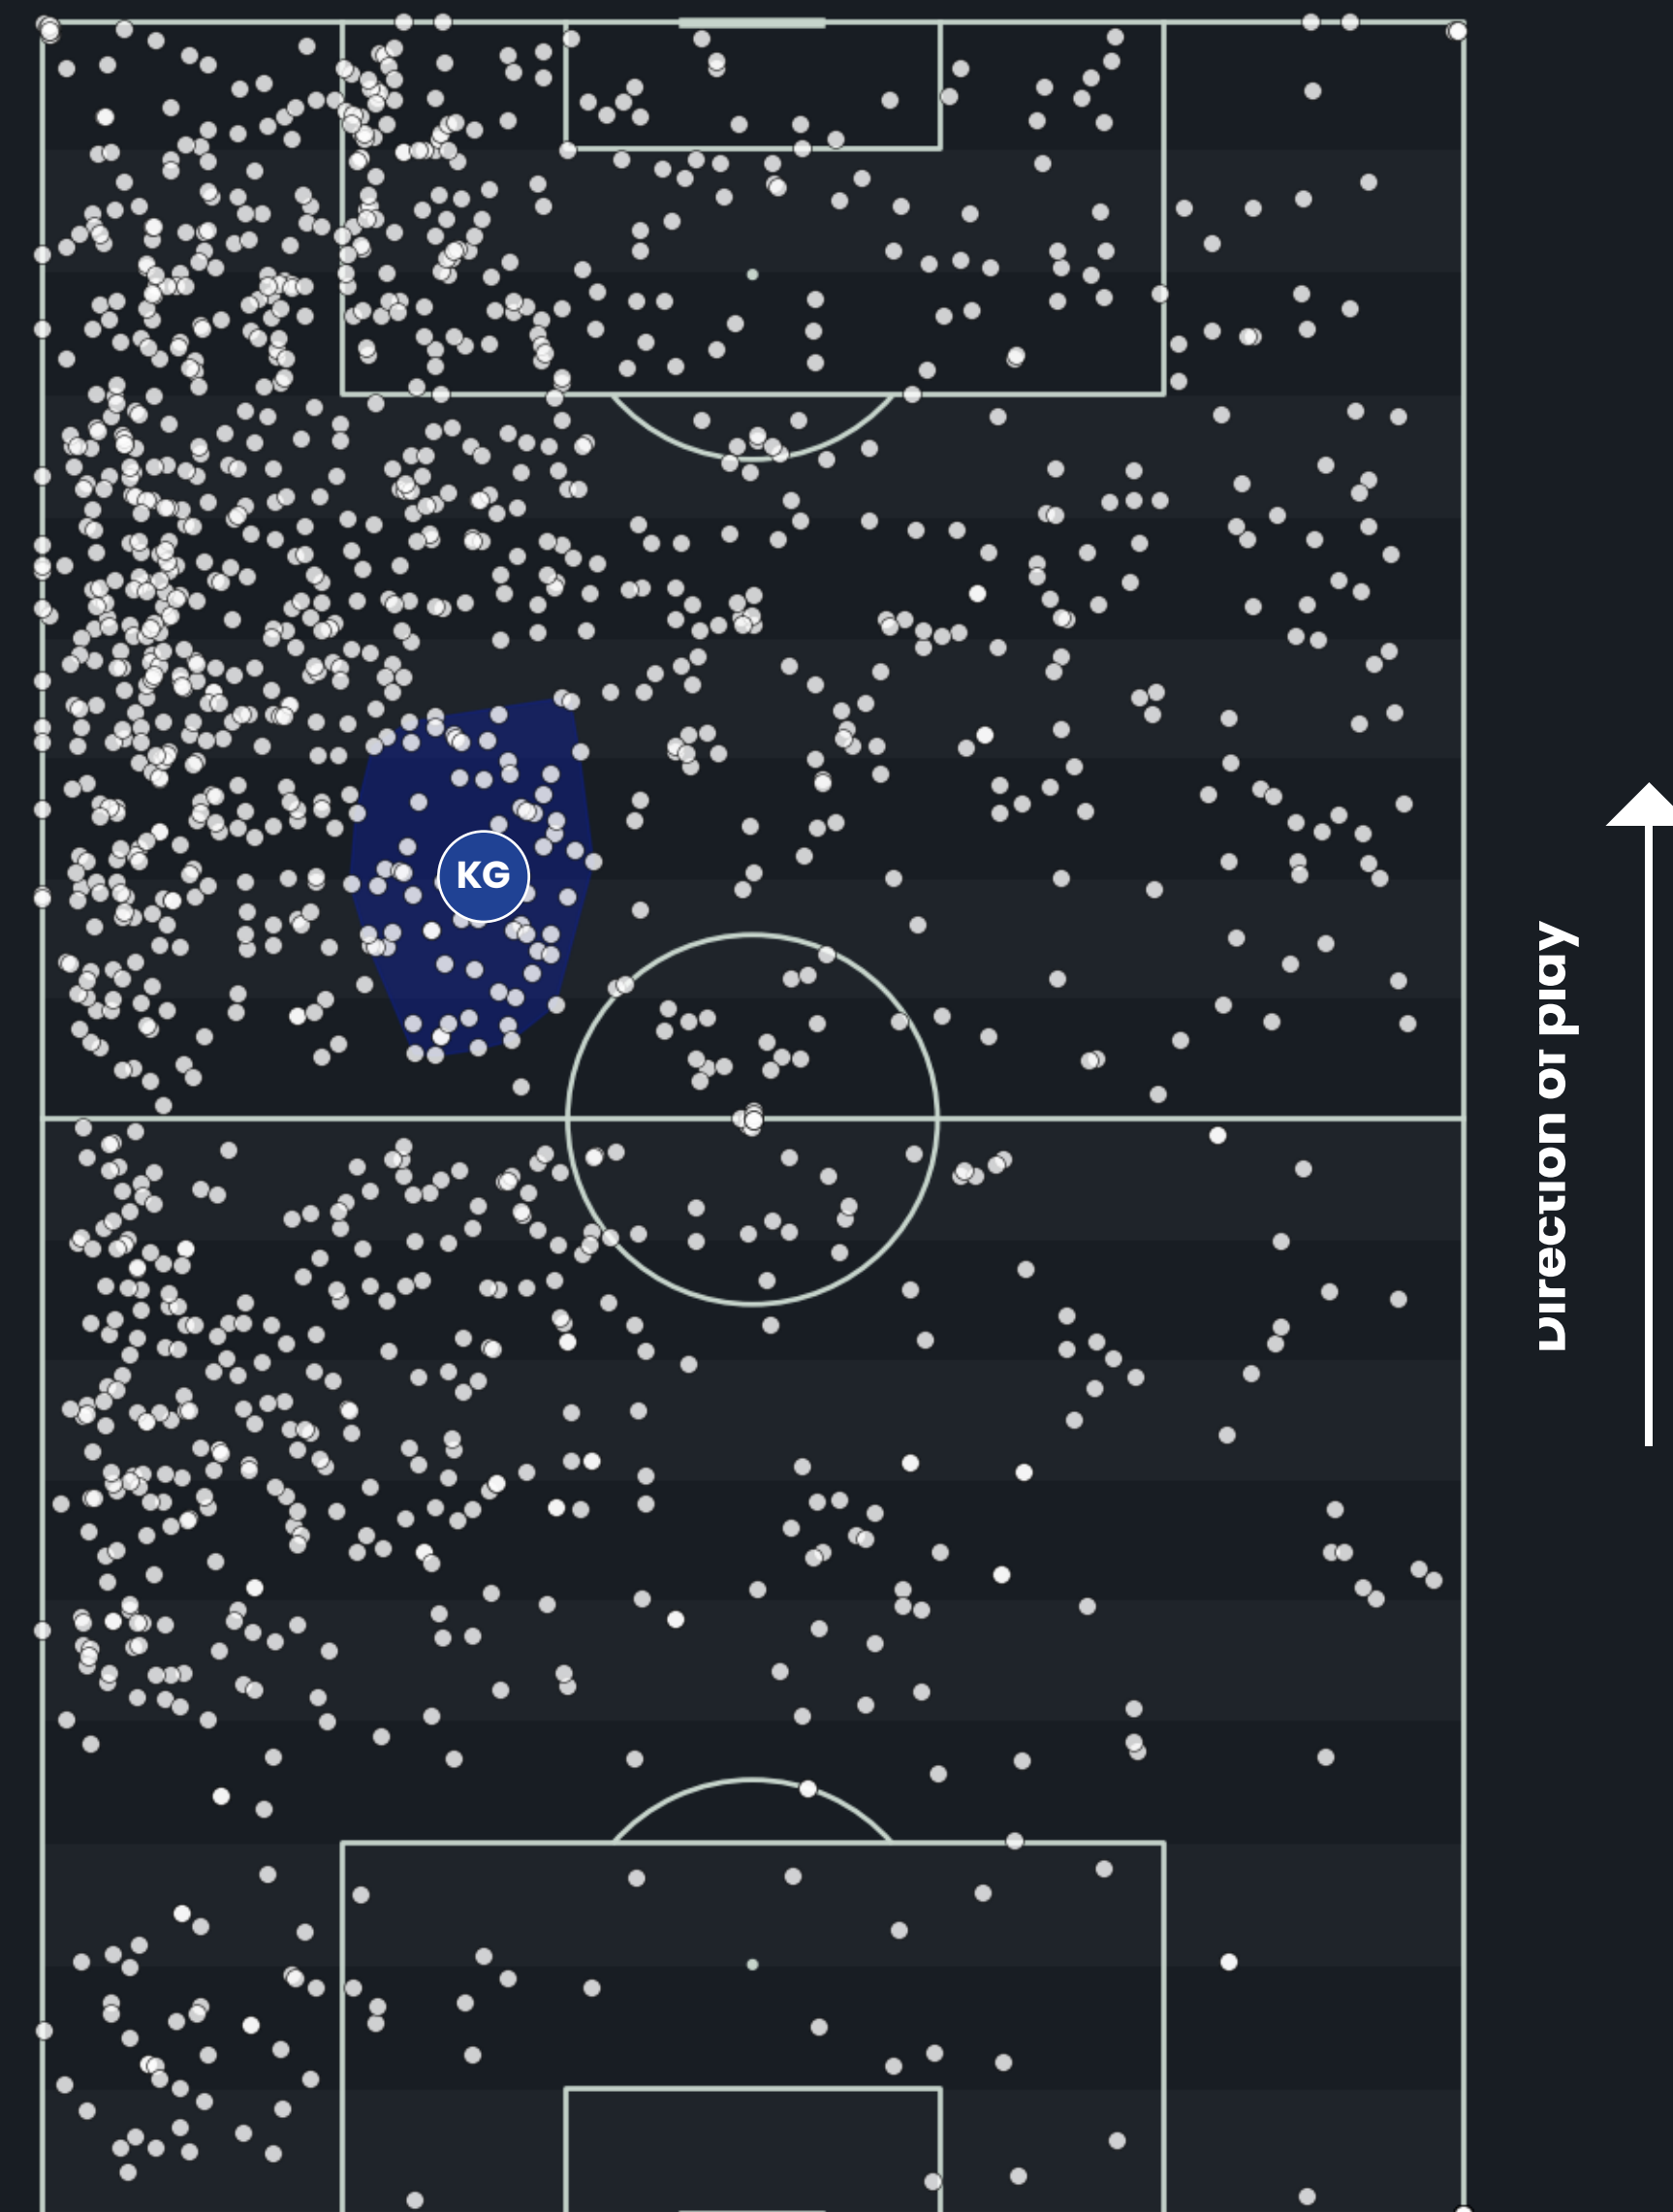

The touch map also shows his ability to drop into deeper pockets, aiding in build-up play and transitioning the ball into the final third through progressive carries or short combinations.

ScoutDeck® believes, that he has the attributes to make a greater impact in central attacking roles going forward such as a Deep-Lying Forward. This is evidenced in his shot map data along with Grant's performance data.

Average Deep-Lying Forward Ranking

Data Summary

Goal Scoring

Karlan Grant ranks below average for goal-scoring metrics compared to his positional peers.

- 25th percentile for Non-Penalty Goals per 90 (0.22)
- 12th percentile for NPxG Non-Penalty xG (0.22)
- 50th percentile for Shots per 90 (2.52)
- 37th percentile for Shots on Target % (35.4%)

What does this mean?

This is largely influenced by West Brom's tactical setup and his deployment primarily on the left flank. Given his technical quality and composure in front of goal, these numbers would likely improve significantly if he were utilised more frequently in a central role, where he can operate closer to the opposition's box and receive higher-value chances.

Chance Creation

Grant creates high-value opportunities for his teammates, a strength reflected in the data.

- 90th percentile for Expected Assists (xA) per 90 (0.14)
- 78th percentile for Key Passes per 90 (1.17)
- 64th percentile for Shot Creating Actions per 90 (2.80)
- 19th percentile for Passes into the penalty area per 90 (0.83)

What does this mean?

Karlan is an elite chance creator in the front-line. He is able to create high-value chances for his teammates every time he steps onto the pitch. Whilst his assists maybe low, jsut two (2) for the season, he can only create and deliver chances, it is up to his teammates to convert them. Again his passes into the penalty area may be low, but this is due to the fact he ranks highly in Carries into the penalty area (99th percentile).

Build-Up Play

Karlan Grant ranks exceptionally well among forwards for his contribution to build-up play. This stems from his intelligent movement to find space and his willingness to offer himself as a passing option in advanced areas.

- 69th percentile for Touches in Penalty Area per 90 (5.04)
- 96th percentile for Touches in the Final Third per 90 (21.4)
- 86th percentile for Passes into the Final Third per 90 (1.11)
- 99th percentile for Passes per 90 (22.0)
- 65th percentile for Pass Completion (70.8%)
- 97th percentile for Passes Received per 90 (29.9)
- 92nd percentile for Progressive Passes Received per 90 (7.43)

What does this mean?

Grant plays an active role in possession phases, often acting as a connector between midfield and attack. His high involvement and positioning intelligence make him a valuable asset for teams that play through the thirds and rely on fluid attacking movements.

Ball Carrying

Karlan Grant profiles as an elite ball carrier, with data highlighting his ability to drive forward and commit defenders.

- 88th percentile for Dribbles per 90 (2.7)
- 72nd percentile for Successful Dribbles % (44.3%)
- 99th percentile for Progressive Carries per 90 (3.87)
- 99th percentile for Carries into the Penalty Area (1.87)

What does this mean?

Grant excels at progressing play through ball carrying, using his pace and close control to advance into dangerous areas. His ability to repeatedly penetrate the final third with the ball makes him a constant threat in transition and a valuable asset in breaking down compact defences.

Defensive Actions

Grant contributes effectively in defensive phases, particularly on the ground. His numbers reflect a willingness to engage and win duels, especially when pressing from the front:

- 79th percentile for Defensive Duels per 90 (0.92)
- 72nd percentile for Defensive Duels Won % (52.0%)
- 94th percentile for Ball Recoveries per 90 (3.23)
- 8th percentile for Aerial Duels per 90 (0.86)
- 18th percentile for Aerial Duels Won % (31.8)

What does this mean?

Grant is an active presser who contributes well to his team's out-of-possession shape, particularly in ground duels and ball recoveries. However, his limited aerial involvement and low success rate suggest that he is less effective in physical matchups or when defending long balls. He's best suited to a pressing system that doesn't rely heavily on aerial duels from the forward line.

Overall Summary

Karlan Grant is a dynamic and intelligent forward who brings significant value across multiple phases of play. While his goal-scoring output is currently below average, largely due to his role on the left flank—his underlying quality suggests he would thrive with more central minutes.

Creatively, he ranks among the Championship's elite, consistently generating high-value chances for teammates. His strength in build-up play is equally impressive, underpinned by outstanding movement, high passing volume, and excellent availability in advanced areas.

As a ball carrier, Grant excels at progressing play, frequently driving into the penalty area and disrupting defensive lines. Defensively, he is an active presser and recovers possession well, although his aerial ability remains a clear area for improvement.

Overall, Grant is a versatile attacking asset best suited to systems that value intelligent movement, combination play, and quick transitions
